Korea Times : Samsung, the South Korean tech giant, has warned owners of the Galaxy Note 7 to turn off their phone after more reports of the device catching fire. The company will also stop shipping the flagship phone to stores. The device, launched in August, was set to rival Apple's iPhone. Samsung engineers must now conduct an investigation into what is causing so many phones to catch fire. Samsung had already been hit following a recall of 2.5 million phones in September after many burst into flames when their batteries exploded. This new episode further damages the company's credibility as many of the exploding phones are those that had batteries replaced in September and were deemed to be safe. Industry analysts are now predicting how much the latest trouble will cost the company.

South Korean media is reporting that the company could discontinue producing the phone. However, South Korea's finance minister Yoo Il-ho has warned that the country's exports would be damaged if it did this. He said: "Right now we can't tell what the impact will be in the long term. It's up to the company and the government cannot interfere, but if they do scrap the model, it will have a negative impact on exports." The Korea Times said: "It is urgent that the company recover its brand image and the only way to do this is to place quality and customer satisfaction above anything else."

To Whom it May Concern:

On March 5, 2010, I bought a Perfect Muffin Kit from your store at Midfield Mall. The cashier who assisted me was George. George was very friendly and assured me that the Perfect Muffin Kit would live up to the guarantee on the box: “Perfect Muffins Every Time!”

Unfortunately, this product did not live up to its claim. Although the box promised, as I stated above, to provide “Perfect Muffins Every Time,” the muffins I made were far from perfect. I followed the directions included in the package very carefully. First, I removed the bag of mix from the box. Then, I poured it into a bowl. Next, I added the correct amount of water to the mix and stirred it. The directions said that after stirring the mixture, I could, and I quote, “add half a cup of raisins, nuts, berries, or another favorite ingredient.” My favorite ingredient happens to be hot sauce. I find that a dash of hot sauce makes pizza, pasta, and soup taste very delicious. So, continuing to follow the directions, I added half a cup of hot sauce to the mix and stirred it. Finally, I poured the mix into muffin tins and baked it in the oven at 350 degrees for exactly 20 minutes.

When the muffins finished baking, I was very excited to eat the “Perfect Muffins” as promised on the box. You can imagine my disappointment when, upon tasting the muffins, I discovered that they were not perfect. These muffins were, in fact, absolutely terrible. Not even my dog was interested in eating these supposedly “perfect” muffins.

I would appreciate a full refund ($3.99) for this product as soon as possible. Enclosed are the receipt, the empty box, and one of the un-perfect muffins so that you can experience it for yourself. Thank you for your prompt attention to this matter.

Sincerely,
Michelle Bauer

Extract 5

- 1 The day before Superstorm Sandy struck the Northeast last fall, Sarah Romulo and her family left their home in Rockaway Beach, N.Y. They did not feel comfortable sitting tight, blocks from the boardwalk that faces the Atlantic – not with the warnings they were hearing and with their two kids, a 15-year-old and 2-year-old. With an evacuation order in place, they went to stay with Sarah’s mother-in-law in Queen Village, about 20 kilometers inland.
- 2 From there, Sandy felt like “just a little windstorm, it seemed like nothing,” Romulo recalls. But television news showed the unfolding devastation, as the storm made landfall on Oct. 30. “We felt so helpless, not knowing what was happening” with the family’s home and business, a martial arts gym a few blocks from their house. When they got back to their property a few days after the storm, they found that the basement in their house had flooded; meanwhile, their gym had been filled with at least two meters of water.

- 3 Despite the warnings, Romulo and her family had considered staying put – and many others did remain at home. Hurricane Irene, which struck in August 2011, had not been bad. So it’s understandable that some people thought they might be able to ride out Sandy. Unfortunately, Sandy was about to become one of the most devastating storms in decades to strike the U.S., let alone the Northeast.
- 4 Somehow, the warnings issued by federal agencies that Sandy would be worse than Irene, worse than anything the Northeast had seen since 1962, seemingly were missed. What went wrong? And how can the responsible federal agencies avoid a repeat?

(<http://www.earthmagazine.org>)

74. What is the main idea of the passage?

1. The catastrophe of Sandy in New York
2. Hurricane Sandy is the most dangerous in the world
3. How Sandy changed the way we issue storm warning
4. How encounters were avoided when the storm attacked
5. Difference severe levels between Hurricane Irene and Hurricane Sandy

75. Where did Romulo’s family move while the hurricane was striking?

- | | |
|-----------------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 1. An evacuation center. | 2. A family house in Queen. |
| 3. The boardwalk near beach. | 4. A gymnasium at the university. |
| 5. The art gym in Rockaway beach. | |

76. According to paragraph 1, what does “they” refer to?

- | | |
|----------------------|--------------------|
| 1. blocks | 2. two kids |
| 3. the warnings | 4. Hurricane Sandy |
| 5. the Romulo family | |

77. According to paragraph 3, the phrase (v.) “ride out” can most closely be defined as :

- | | |
|-----------------|-------------|
| 1. go out | 2. put off |
| 3. break of | 4. run away |
| 5. pull through | |

2. Hurricane Sandy is more severe than Hurricane Irene.
3. Rockaway beach was one of the encountered area from Hurricane Sandy.
4. The Romulo’s family decided to evacuate because of the warnings issued by the federal agency.
5. Some people still stayed at their home due to believing that Hurricane Sandy would not have been worse than Hurricane Irene.

Some wedding customs of other times and cultures were notably dramatic. For example, in ancient Rome, grooms carried their brides over the threshold. Before they did, however, they smeared the doorposts with fat and wrapped them in wool to banish evil spirits. In old Mexico, bridal couples shaved their heads to show that they had set aside childish ideas and welcomed responsibilities of marriage. In 18th century, in England, the groom’s mother broke a loaf bread over the bride’s head as the bride entered her new home. This, they believe, ensured future happiness for the married couple.
